

The "Communication Without Borders" project aims to develop and implement a training model for employees of public institutions, non-governmental organizations and volunteers who have direct contact with people leaving penitentiary units. The project aims to improve the competences of these people in the field of effective communication and the use of motivational dialogue and coaching methods to support people leaving prisons in their social readaptation process.

Our aims:

- To develop of a manual and training materials based on the idea of Rollnick Miller's motivational dialogue (MIRM) and coaching.
- Conducting training for multipliers and people working with former prisoners.
- Increasing the competences of people working with former prisoners by participating in the training and developing a cooperation network.
- Obtaining precise knowledge about the needs of people working with former inmates through research on professional competences in the field of verbal and non-verbal communication.

The project is innovative due to the use of innovative methods of communication and support, such as Rollnick Miller's motivational dialogue (MIRM) and coaching, in the area of work with people leaving prisons.

The project partnership includes four organizations from Poland, Germany and Lithuania that have experience in the field of adult education and training and in working with people at risk of social exclusion.

We see the need for a new approach in working with people leaving penitentiary units and we want to respond!

The project will contribute to improving the quality of post-penitentiary support at the European level, through the exchange of experience and knowledge between partners from different countries.

Stay with us and watch the progress of work!
